A BURIAL AT TWILIGHT.

[The following composition, written by a citizen of Frankfort, was first published a few years ago; and, there having been several requests recently that it be republished, the author has kindly furnished us with the copy, and we gladly give it space in our paper.—Editor.]

The writer recently had occasion to visit our beautiful cemetery late in the afternoon, and while in that peaceful retreat witnessed the close of a perfect autumn day.

"The day with its sandals dipped in dew,
Had pass'd through the evening's golden gates;
While a single star in the cloudless blue,
For the rising moon in silence waits."

Standing upon the outermost edge of the overhanging cliff, and looking southward, you see the winding of the beautiful Kentucky, like a burnished silver ribbon glistening through the green and golden foliage lining its banks, until, away in the dim distance, it loses itself amid the rugged hills. Down beneath you, an hundred feet or more, in a valley that to be seen once is to be remembered always, lies the quiet and beautiful little city of Frankfort, canopied in a dreamy blue haze, as the evening shadows lengthen from the western hills. And now, as it grows darker, and the air grows chill, the twittering birds cease their chatter and seek the deepest shades, for they know the quiet hour of peaceful rest has come. Look! Like the reflection of the stars upon the oceanic tranquil bosom, you see the lights of the city appear, one by one. You hear no more the ceaseless hum of industry and traffic; and the weary laborer and mechanic are silently winding their way to home and rest. Hark! What sound is that which breaks upon this solemn stillness? The steady and regular tread of horses' feet and the grinding of wheels upon the gravelled roadway tell the coming of another tenant to this Silent City. Flinging the tops of the sentinel pines with a golden halo of mellow light the round, full moon now majestically floats into space in the eastern sky, making the shadows darker, and casting a weird spell over all the scene. How strange! How sad! A burial by moonlight. Sawily the cortege moves along until they reach the narrow home wherein the dead shall lie until the last and final day, when all shall come forth, at the call of the Master. Sadly the mournful duty is performed by loving hands, and the mound of earth heaped over the loved one, the flowers strewn upon the grave, the last prayer said, and the broken hearted living turn back to the world and leave their loved one sleeping 'neath the slanting moonbeams. Such scenes are seldom witnessed; yet I know not why it should not be customary to bury our dead at twilight. There could be no more fitting time for such a ceremony than the close of day, emblematic of the close of the life just ended. 'Tis more impressive at that hour than at any other, and draws from the human heart the purest of feelings, and the soul of man gets nearer to his God.

THE ROUNDER.

FEARFUL ODDS AGAINST HIM.

Bedridden, alone and destitute. Such, in brief was the condition of an old soldier by name of J. J. Havens, Versailles, O. For years he was troubled with kidney disease and neither doctors nor medicines gave him relief. At length he tried Electric Bitters. It put him on his feet in short order and now he testifies, "I'm on the road to complete recovery." Rest on earth for liver and kidney troubles and all forms of Stomach and Bowel Complaints. Only 50c. Guaranteed by all druggists.

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT.

As death has again visited our Chapter and taken another of our most worthy and beloved charter members and friends, Mrs. Lucy F. Duval; therefore, be it Resolved, That we, the members of the Joseph H. Lewis Chapter, U. D. C., humbly bow in submission to Him who doeth all things for His own glory, yet we deeply lament the demise of our worthy member.

Resolved, That while we mourn the decease of our friend and member, we extend our sympathy to her bereaved daughters and relations.

Resolved, That these resolutions be published in the Roundabout and be filed on the records of the chapter, and that a copy be sent to her family.

By JOSEPH H. LEWIS CHAP-TER, U. D. C.

"I owe my whole life to Burdock Blood Bitters. Scrofulous sores covered my body. I seemed beyond cure. R. B. B. has made me a perfectly well woman." Mrs. Chas. Hutton, Berville, Mich.

STRONG TESTIMONY.

This is Frankfort Testimony and Will Stand Investigation.

If you doubt the following and wish to investigate, you haven't to go to some other State in the Union to prove it. Its not a long story published in Frankfort newspapers about a resident in Kalamazoo, Mich., or Tampa, Fla. Its about a resident of Frankfort and given in his own words. No stronger proof can be had.

J. P. Taylor, of 304 Madison St., carpenter by trade, now retired, says: "For nigh on the thirty-five years I was subject to pain and weakness in my back. The trouble I know came from my kidneys especially from the left one, this being the most affected. Sometimes I could scarcely rise after kneeling or stooping, and often when walking sharp pains would take me in my left side so as to nearly cause me to fall. A weakness of the kidney secretion was very annoying, especially at night, and it disturbed my rest. For years at oft-recurring intervals I took various medicines which all practically failed to give the promised and expected benefit. It is the recollection of these very facts which makes me so appreciate the remedy which also afforded me a genuine and lasting benefit. I refer to Doan's Kidney Pills which were procured by me at J. W. Gayle's drug store. They went right to the cause of the trouble and removed it. I will always recommend Doan's Kidney Pills to my friends as a remedy that can be depended upon."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name, Doan's, and take no other.

GOOD SPIRITS.

Good spirits don't all come from Kentucky. Their main source is the liver—and all the fine spirits ever made in the Blue Grass State could not remedy a bad liver or the hundred-and-one ill effects it produces. You can't have good spirits and a bad liver at the same time. Your liver must be in fine condition if you would feel buoyant, happy and hopeful, bright of eye, light of step, vigorous and successful in your pursuits. You can put your liver in fine condition by using Green's August Flower—the greatest of all medicines for the liver and stomach, and a certain cure for dyspepsia or indigestion. It has been a favorite household remedy for over thirty-five years. August Flower will make your liver healthy and active, and thus insure you a liberal supply of "good spirits." Trial size, 25c; regular bottles, 75c. At all druggists.

A CHINESE HONEYMOON.

Will be Presented at Capital Theatre, Friday, March 18.

"A Chinese Honeymoon" will receive its initial performance in Frankfort at Capital Theatre, Friday, March 18. "A Chinese Honeymoon" is the work of George Dance, who wrote the book and lyrics, and Howard Talbot, who is responsible for the music. Its plot, which is interesting and clearly defined, follows the adventures of an Englishman, Samuel Pineapple, and his bride who go to Yang Yang on their honeymoon. The bride, being extremely jealous, insists upon taking her eight bridesmaids along to watch her husband. Arriving in Yang Yang, the husband being too pronounced in his admiration for the Princess Soo So, raises his wife's ire, and she, for revenge, flirts with a Chinaman, who is smitten with her charms. It happens that this Chinaman is Hang Chow, the Emperor of Yang Yang, who is in search of a wife, and when he kisses her, the empress, according to local law, is betrothed and a marriage must take place the same day. Mr. Pineapple deepens the difficulty by kissing the Princess and thus there are two betrothals and two weddings imminent. From this situation a number of complications are developed and plenty of fun is extracted from the mix-up before the matters are finally straightened out. As an accompaniment to this diverting, though by no means cumbersome story, Mr. Talbot has furnished some excellent music which rippled along in pleasant style.

FRANKFORT, MARCH 12, 1903

TO THE GOOD PEOPLE OF THE CITY.

Owing to the fact that the hotel of the city have about exhausted their capacity in arranging for the entertainment of the Knights Templar of the State, at their approaching Grand Conclave, May 18-19, 1904, the committee of arrangements have to appeal to the good people of this city to open their doors for Knights Templar and their ladies.

It is earnestly requested that those having accommodations will notify the Committee on Entertainment, care of the Frankfort Drug Co., or the Secretary of the Committee, Dr. E. W. Keyes, as to the number of Knights and ladies they can entertain, or whether Sir Knights only, from the evening of May 17th until the morning of May 20th, giving price.

We are confident that there will be a ready response to this appeal.

COUNTY COURT DAY.

Monday was county court day and, in the early part, was so raw and rainy that but few people were in the city, but by noon, there was a good crowd present.

There was more than the ordinary quantity of stock on the market. Good horses were in demand and the buying was brisk and good prices ruled. Plugs and inferior stock sold at almost any price.

Cattle offered were generally in poor condition and of course, did not sell well. Cows and calves also ruled low.

A KNIGHT OF COLUMBIA.

By General Charles King—A Story of the War.

In this charming and romantic novel, General King seems to have surpassed all previous efforts. His hero, a graduate of Columbia College, first meets the reader in the Academy of Music, New York City, on the occasion of Commencement Day, in 1861, at the breaking out of the war. His magnificent speech, "A Man to the Flag," delivered on that occasion, full of the fire of patriotism, created the most intense excitement, the vast audience expressing their approval or otherwise according to their political preferences, for as yet the question of "which flag" was unsettled in the hearts of many. Then comes his enlistment, and he is fully launched on the troubled seas of those stirring times. His varied fortunes are closely followed, both in love and war, there being two fervent love stories running through the entire book. The plot is intricate and exciting, holding the reader in a tense grasp from start to finish. The historical scenes of battle are depicted in a manner worthy of this talented author, who now tells for the first time, "The Truth About Chancellorsville," narrating the ill-fated Eleven Corps from the odium that has always been heaped upon it, thus flatly contradicting previous accounts. This alone will be of great interest to soldier and also to civilian. The atrocities of the mob during the draft riots in New York come in for stirring descriptions, and altogether the story is one "to warm the cockles of the heart" and arouse that healthy and vigorous enthusiasm that we all enjoy.

Published in one style of binding only, 12mo, 340 pages. Price, $1.50.

COLD COMFORT FROM DOCTORS.

Doctors say neuralgia is not dangerous. This is poor consolation to a sufferer who feels as if his face were pierced with hot needles and torn with a thousand pairs of pinners. A word of advice to him: Stay indoors and use Perry Davis' Painkiller. The blessed freedom from pain which follows this treatment can not be told. There is but one Painkiller, Perry Davis'.

Habit Worse Than the Disease.

Dr. Miles' Nervine Cured Me.

When the nervous system has been shattered by the use of deadly drugs there is nothing to equal Dr. Miles' Nervine in restoring it to health and normal activity.

"I feel so grateful for what Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine has done for me that I must tell for that part of humanity that suffers as I have. During the three years I suffered from nervous prostration I found no relief except when doctors gave morphine. To get rid of suffering I took morphine myself as it was the only thing that would give ease, and now you who point with scorn at morphine using, how could you, when in such agony, knowing it is not the only thing that would give relief, resist it? I knew it was a terrible habit and I knew of its deadly grasp, but I never fully realized its significance until I had used a number of months. Oh, the misery of being addicted to such a habit. I resolved then and there to quit it and resolved I would never be a slave to any such demon. About this time I happened to notice Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine advertised and ordered a bottle. After using five bottles I can truly say I am cured of using morphine. Now, however much persons may doubt it, God is my witness I am cured. This testimonial is unsolicited but feel my duty to give it for the benefit of the suffering."—MATTIE PHILLIPS, Prescott, Ark. All druggists sell and guarantee first bottle Dr. Miles' Remedies. GET OUT THE FAMILY TREE.

George Washington's Heirs to Sue For Millions.

Claim Part of Philadelphia and Washington, to Say Nothing of Georgia and Kentucky.

Several suits which will probably be instituted within the next few months in the States of Pennsylvania, Georgia and Kentucky and the District of Columbia will involve many millions of dollars and as many hundreds of persons, and will also have the effect of locating every possible connection now living of the late General George Washington's household and heirs are those interested in the various claims to be contested. Although no property in the city of Baltimore, or even the State of Maryland, will figure in the suits, the case is one of peculiar local interest, inasmuch as many Baltimoreans are concerned in the claims.

The claims are based upon a 99-year lease, which was given by the late Joseph Ball, of Virginia, a half-brother of George Washington's mother, upon land in the afore-mentioned sections of the country about 98 years ago, and which, in consequence, expires in a short time. The value of this property at the present time runs up to hundreds of millions. The tract which lies in the State of Pennsylvania was, in Mr. Ball's day, open country, but now covered by a large part of the city of Philadelphia, and this claim alone will aggregate many millions of dollars. Next to the Philadelphia claim, a similar one upon land in the city of Washington is the largest. As in Philadelphia, the property concerned in the Washington claim represents in value millions of dollars, and although the exact boundary lines have not been located, it is known that the land is part of the most valuable in the District. While the land in Kentucky and Georgia is not as valuable as that in the cities of Washington and Philadelphia, in area it is much larger, and will prove to be an appreciable amount, even if several hundreds of heirs should substantiate their claims.

While the fact that the land was leased by Mr. Ball is said to be undisputed, all attempts to take possession of it will meet with much opposition, and on this account, some of the principal heirs hope for nothing better than a compromise. Others, however, are more sanguine in their expectations, and believe their chances good for coming into possession of all the land involved in the claims.

While there is much doubt as to the extent and exact location of a large part of the land, equally as much uncertainty characterizes a knowledge of the bona fide heirs, and it is believed by those more directly concerned that when it becomes generally known that the descendants of the Ball family have inherited so vast a claim, heirs will spring up in all parts of the country. This is evidenced by the remark a few days ago from a gentleman, whose identity as one of the Ball heirs is undisputed, that the large expense incurred by the employment of lawyers all over the country would be greatly augmented by nearly as large a sum which would have to be paid the genealogists whose duty it would be to trace out the various descendants of the Balls. Beyond the fact that Mr.

Ball died a bachelor, and left his estate to his four sisters and one half-sister, Mary Washington, little is generally known regarding the different branches of the family tree. It is also known, though, that both of Mrs. Washington's sons, George and Lawrence, had no descendants, the former leaving no issue, while the only child of the latter died in its infancy. The number and names of the other sisters' children, whose descendants from the heirs, is a matter which will have to be traced out. Just what steps will be taken to gain possession of the property have not been definitely decided upon yet. A great deal of correspondence is taking place between the heirs just at the present time, however, and it is probable that a meeting of all those concerned will be held in the city of Washington in the near future.

The grandmother of the proprietor of this paper and of the editor of this paper was the great-granddaughter of Hannah Ball, a full sister of the Joseph Ball mentioned in the above article.

HANDSOME WRITE UP.

We are in receipt, through the courtesy of a relative, of a copy of the Buffalo (N. Y.) Illustrated Times, of Feb. 28, with a beautiful write up of the last twenty-five years of that hustling and up-to-date city. It shows the wonderful business facilities of the city and its progressive business men. It makes a very handsome showing.

AN INVALUABLE PAPER.

The Kentucky Farmer and Breeder, published at Lexington, Ky., is evidently going to fill a position in Kentucky journalism which no other paper has ever tried to fill. It covers every department of both live stock and general farm interests—thoroughbred, trotting horse, saddle horse, cattle, sheep, general farm interests.

SPEECH OF HON. G. W. SHAD- OAN, OF PULASKI COUNTY.

The following is the speech prepared by Hon. G. W. Shadon for delivery at the Capitol Banquet, Tuesday, March 1, but which was not delivered owing to the lateness of the hour and Mr. Shadon's poor health compelling him to leave the hall:

Mr. Toastmaster, some one has said, "Breathes there a man with soul so dead, that he'er to himself hath said, this is my own, my native land," and while I am sure Dr. Black to whom was assigned the response to this toast, could have done so more satisfactorily than myself, yet in deference to the request of the committee on programme, of which I understand you are the chairman, and in response to the promptings of my own heart, I will undertake this duty.

When I try to properly represent "the mountains" I find that language fails me. The inspiration of the poet, and the skill of the artist alone can properly portray them in all their lofty grandeur, and magnificent beauty. Of Kentucky it can be said "Her glorious mountains kiss the skies, her streams clasp at her feet, her dells weave their orient dyes, and nights their vigils keep."

Kentucky would not be Kentucky without her everesting hills and mountains. They are to her what the storm-charged clouds are to the sky. The clouds sweep irresistibly through the mountains, and the thunder peals shake the firmaments and they send down their refreshing showers upon the trembling earth. Like a fond mother's tears upon the face of her righteously child and then they pass away. The sun comes out and its glowing light floods the earth like a sweet smile from the West, and all nature rejoices in newness of life. Kentucky, brave, proud, happy, beautiful Kentucky, thou art the heart of this great union of States.

As the bosom of the mother not only adds beauty to the form, but affords nourishment to the child, so Kentucky, like a queen mother, sits in all her beauty, and the beautiful blue grass counties in her lap, and the glorious mountains as her breasts, from which the other States as her children can derive sustenance. "Time builds on the ruins itself has wrought." It destroys in order to renew, and lays heavily its deprecating hand around it. But time can never destroy the stupendous handiwork of nature and of nature's God in the mountains of Kentucky improve them. These everlasting monuments are as lasting as time itself, and will root to each other in the clouds throughout the endless cycles of eternity. Like a beautiful necklace of costly pearls, adorning the person of a lovely woman, radiant in her beauty, while the blue grass counties rest in the lap of our mother State, the purchase lovingly nestling at her feet, while "the mountains" cluster around her neck, with grand old Pulaski as the central gem, and their peaks sparkle and scintillate in the light of the rising sun like the morning star in its soft fadeless beauty, while the "Pennyrite" fills the atmosphere in her rests with an aroma sweeter, more precious and fragrant than ever was to mortal, the richest perfume of Araby the blest.

Within these massive bosoms nature has stored away for use of future generations, her precious metals and her valuable ores, inexhaustible quantities, while lakes and rivers of oil course through her heart and arteries sending life and light to the remotest States. When other States shall have abandoned their mines, and they shall have become the dens of wild beasts and the abiding place of deadly serpents, and the inhabitants of those States shall come to Kentucky for supplies as the sons of Jacob went to Egypt for corn, then will it be known that we have resources sufficient not only to supply the wants and needs of our sister States, but for great foreign countries, and the isles of the sea.

"The mountain" forests that stand with giant arms outstretched, shall furnish material for the homes of the families of earth, and the streams of water that cleave these mountain sides and glide through sunshine and shadow to the ocean, shall furnish power to move the machinery of a thrifty State, and light the homes and cities of her people. Not only this, but the people of "the mountains," that are true Kentuckians, love their native State.

"For her ten thousand sons would raise,
The arm against every foreign foe,
And seal the lips with prayer and praise."

And let the life blood flow.
Their duty to future generations, and the respect they have for our illustrious dead, create a desire to be true and loyal to their native State, and to use the advantages given them by their generous brothers in more favored parts of the State, in improving their virtues and graces, so as to make good, true and useful citizens.

The appropriation for the benefit of the Agricultural and Mechanical College will produce blessings to our State, and its citizenship that will be felt when the names of those Senators and Representatives who made this appropriation shall be long forgotten. Coming from all parts of the Commonwealth, our sons and daughters shall, in obtaining an education at that institution, learn more of each other in the future than in the past, and with that knowledge shall come a feeling of fraternity, a love for each other, a knowledge that they are brothers and sisters, children of one common State, and the sectional differences that have existed in the past, but which are fast crumbling now, will forever be destroyed and be no more. May God speed the day, and cut short the time that remains till we see the consummation of this happy and much desired condition. The greatness of a people depends altogether upon its moral power.

That moral power depends upon the character of the home life. Our country will never rise above our homes. While not possessed of all the advantages of other portions of the State, yet the honest, sturdy mountaineers are possessed of many good qualities not found elsewhere. Plain in their manners, social in their habits, hospitable as Abraham of old, strict in their religion as the old prophet of Israel, yet her people of the mountains hold sacred the history of our State, and hoping for the future, see more than an empty formula in the cherished motto of our State, "United we stand divided we fall." As true Kentuckians they recognize we have one common interest. That this common interest may be maintained, fostered and perpetuated, we must be industrious, public spirited, cheerful toward each other and above all things, educated. The extension of the school term, the supplementing of the school fund, the adoption of a uniform series of text-books, are all quick boards pointing to a happier, better and more prosperous era for our beloved State. The Roman Empire tied her provinces to her capital, by macadamized roads. Kentucky will unite her counties, her people, by the indissoluble bonds of fraternity, good will and one common education. In proportion as these virtues are cherished our great State characteristic will shine forth with renewed splendor, that of hospitality.

God grant that the day may never come when the battle-flags will never be found hanging out, or church bells ring in a single Kentucky home. Who would not be a Kentuckian? The troubadour of a chivalrous age penned the daring deeds of the plumed and helmeted knight, and in our hall the bard sang of his glorious conquest in love and war. The mighty rulers of Egypt, Assyria and Persia sought in everlasting monuments piles of masonry to perpetuate their names. Some modern money kings seek to overcome the ravages of time and override the waves of oblivion by establishing churches or public libraries. All, all, ancient or modern would have countless future generations know their names and greatness of their deeds. But the proudest inscription ever chiseled on monument towering above man's last resting place, whether marble, granite, or wood, enduring when all other inscriptions shall become unintelligible, carrying with it all that is great, noble, brave and true is the single sentence "he was a Kentuckian." When the great law-giver of Israel prepared for the erection of the tabernacle in the wilderness in which Jehovah should abide, all were asked to contribute in order to tie the people together in one common religion.

So as representatives of the people, blue grass, mountain, purchase and pennyrite, we as law-makers, for and on behalf of the people, have made provisions for the erection of a tabernacle, a temple, in which every Kentuckian has an interest, and God grant that good will and brotherly love may tie all our people together, and the cement that enters into the structure of our capitol building, bind the parts together.

"Then come, brothers, lend a helping hand,
Your heart, your hand, your

Lets lift our State to the skies,
An offering to the Lord."

CANCER CURED!!

Mr. W. W. Pickett, Smithfield, Ill., writes, Sept. 10th, 1901: "I had been suffering several years with a cancer on my face, which gave me great annoyance and a bearable itching. I was using Ballard's Snow Liniment for a sore leg, and through an accident, I rubbed some of the liniment on the cancer, and as it gave me almost instant relief, I decided to continue to use the liniment on the cancer. In a short time the cancer came out, my face healed up and there is not the slightest scar left. I have implicit faith in the merits of this preparation, and it can not be too highly recommended." 25c, 50c and $1.00. For sale by Paul B. Weitzel.

..DEATHS..

WATSON—In Louisville, on Feb. 28, Mr. John Watson, son of the late Mr. Jas. R. Watson, aged 35 years.

Mr. Watson was born and raised in this city and has many friends here. He was a splendid engraver. He leaves a widow, but no children.

MARSHALL—At the home of her father, on East Main street, on Monday afternoon, Virginia Marshall, daughter of Mr. L. B. Marshall and wife, aged 7 years.

This dear little girl had been a patient sufferer nearly all her short life, and death came as a sweet release to her tired heart.

By her gentle disposition and patience under intense pain she had won the hearts of all who knew her, and was the idol of her mother, father and sister.

The fragrance of her pure little life will linger long in that darkened home.

She leaves a mother, father and sister with anguished hearts to view the vacant place in their home.

The funeral services were conducted by Rev. A. B. Chinn, from the Chapel of Ascension Church, on Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock, after which the remains were laid away in our cemetery.

The tenderest sympathy is extended the sadly bereft.

GOIN—At his home, in Woodford county, near Jett, on Saturday, Mr. Sanford W. Goin, aged 60 years, of heart failure, caused by grip.

Mr. Goin was born and raised in this city and was the son of the late Capt. S. W. Goin and wife, and was a brother of Mrs. John H. Triplett, of this city.

Mr. Goin was a gentleman of genial and manly character—firm in his convictions of duty and courageous in discharging them.

He was a member of Grassy Springs Christian Church. He leaves a wife (who was a Miss Newbold), five sons, two daughters, one sister, one half-sister and one half-brother, besides a large circle of relatives to mourn his untimely death.

The funeral services were conducted from the Millville Christian Church, by Rev. J. K. P. South, on Sunday afternoon, at 1:30 o'clock, and the remains were laid to rest in the family lot in our cemetery.

We have known Mr. Goin all his life and he was our warm personal friend. We lament his death.

SCOTT—In Sherman, Texas, on Tuesday, Dr. John Orlando Scott, aged 63 years, as the result of an operation.

Dr. Scott was the youngest son of the late Col. Robt. W. Scott. He was our schoolmate and friend in boyhood days.

He was educated at the famous school of Col. B. B. Sayre, in this city, afterward attending Centre College, Danville.

When the civil war came on he, like about half of our boyhood friends, enlisted in the Confederate army, as a Surgeon, having studied medicine and located in Owen county for its practice.

He served with distinction until the close of strife, when he went abroad to complete his medical training.

Returning to Kentucky he located at Owensboro, finally removing to Sherman, in the lone star State.

He at once went to the front in his profession and maintained himself as such until the end.

Our relation as friends had never ceased, and we wish to bear testimony to the chivalric and honorable character of our lost friend.

May the clouds rest lightly on his stilled breast.

HOCKENSMITH—In this county, on Tuesday, Mr. Wm. Hockensmith, aged 70 years.

The funeral services were conducted at North Fork Baptist Church, on Wednesday, by Rev. M. B. Adams, and the remains were interred in the cemetery at that church.

COLAHAN—After a long and painful illness, at Lambertville, New Jersey, Commander Chas. E. Colahan, U. S. N., age 54 years.

He was a native of Philadelphia, graduated from Annapolis in 1869. Married Miss Belle Hensley, of this city, September, 1880, who survives him with one son. He also leaves a daughter by former marriage. He was one of the most popular men in the navy.

Linen Suitings, all styles and prices. We have them. Popular fabrics for 1904.

"DO IT TO-DAY."

The time-worn injunction, "Never put off 'till to-morrow what you can do to-day," is now generally presented in this form: "Do it to-day!" That is the terse advice we want to give you about that hacking cough or demoralizing cold with which you have been struggling for several days, perhaps weeks. Take some reliable remedy forth to-day—and let that remedy be Dr. Boesche's German Syrup, which has been in use for over thirty-five years. A few doses of it will undoubtedly relieve your cough or cold, and its continued use for a few days will cure you completely. No matter how deep-seated your cough, even if dread consumption has attacked your lungs, German Syrup will surely effect a cure—as it has done before in thousands of apparently hopeless cases of lung trouble. New trial bottles, 25¢; regular size, 75¢. At all druggists.

COMMUNICATED.

Frankfort, Franklin County, Ky., March 9, 1904.

Editor Roundabout:

Sir—Regarding your kick concerning the receipt of Frankfort mail at Farmdale, Ky., I have to advise that the establishment of rural delivery service from Lawrenceburg through Farmdale to Elmore, Ky., beginning January 1, 1904, caused the Department to discontinue service via Route No. 2 from this office to the Farmdale postoffice, as it lapped the route from Lawrenceburg for a considerable distance.

Since March 1st the Farmdale postoffice has been supplied twice daily with star route service from Alton, Ky., on the Southern Railroad.

About two weeks ago I recommended the re-establishment of rural service to Farmdale and my request is now before the Department for action.

The patrons of the Farmdale office evidently left out of consideration the value of their Frankfort mail, while seeking additional service.

Very respectfully,
E. M. DRANE, P. M.
[Thank you, Captain. We knew it was not your fault.—Editor.]

LATEST RADIUM REPORT.

The latest marvel reported by the patient and ingenious students who are exploring the mysteries of radium comes from Ann Arbor, where a professor of the University of Michigan has found that by surrounding a little radium with pure water the fluid is soon charged with radio-activity to such an extent that it stops the pain of cancers almost instantly, and it seems to promise the healing of several cases which are being treated with water so energized. Obviously, it is too early to make very positive claims for radium as a curative agency, but the indications are very auspicious.

The certainty is that radium is so different from other substances and other forces that accepted views of the physical world must be revised, and unknown and unmeasured possibilities are larger and more impressive than they seemed not many months since, in the eye of science. What has been learned of radium is simply enough to prove that very little is yet understood of the earth beneath our feet.

We are still only experimenters, touching the dim edges of momentous truths. Every point of vantage gained widens the fields yet to be won.

COSMOPOLITAN.

Are we on the eve of a perfectly safe and ideally delightful travel through the air? This is what "The Cosmopolitan" discusses in a sixteen-page article in its March issue. The most elaborate presentation of the subject of aerial navigation from a scientific and historical point of view that has ever been presented in a magazine. No less than twenty-nine illustrations, showing all phases of its evolution, are printed.

An article showing how the daily newspapers, the country merchant, the big and little stores of the city and the manufacturer, all would benefit by a postal-parcels law in the United States, corresponding with that of England or more particularly those of Germany and Austria, in "The Cosmopolitan" for March. It shows that the merchants of the United States are paying six thousand per cent. more for postal-parcels delivery than those of Germany and other countries. It is calculated that there would be a saving of from two to four hundred millions a year to the national wealth by intelligent legislation on this subject.

FRANKLIN COUNTY FARMER BILKED.

Mr. W. M. Petty, living in the upper edge of this county, was en route to California, on Wednesday, when he was anchored out of his pocketbook in a Louisville restaurant. The pocketbook contained $140 in money, tickets to California, notes and accounts all amounting to $572 in value.

Petty will be a wiser man in future.

DAMAGED BY HEAVY WIND.

The heavy wind of Thursday afternoon was especially heavy at

COOKING SCHOOL.

Mrs. W. A. Johnson, of Paris, Ky., will open a cooking school on Tuesday, March 15th, at 2½ o'clock at 138 St. Clair street, John L. Scott's old office.

WHAT IS LIFE?

In the last analysis nobody knows, but we do know that it is under strict law. Abuse that law even slightly, pain results. Irregular living means derangement of the organs, resulting in Constipation, Headache or Liver trouble. Dr. King's New Life Pills quickly readjust this. It's gentle, yet thorough. Only 25c at all drug-gists.

PROFITABLE GARDENING

THE early vegetable gets the highest price. If you plant seeds that are prolific as well as early you insure the most profitable results from your garden. That is precisely the kind of seeds you will get here—early and prolific. Every individual seed in our 1904 stock was grown in 1903, and is, therefore, full of vitality. A seed that is left over from year to year loses part of this vitality, hence the necessity of using only absolutely fresh seed for early market vegetables—or for any other purpose for that matter. Our fresh, vigorous seed cost no more than the doubtful kind, and planting them insures certain success—why take any chances?

The valuable coupon found in every box of the Search Light Match, added to its superior lighting and burning qualities make it a most "striking" inducement to match users.

THE DIAMOND MATCH COMPANY.

STAMPING GROUND.

The time for moving has arrived and the wagons loaded with household goods are seen on all our pikes.

Mr. Joel S. Head, Sr., and wife, of Burghin, are guests of their son, Mr. Richard C. Head.

Mr. Charlton Duvall and family of Chicago, Ill., are visiting relatives here—their old home.

Mrs. Ann E. King is still very ill at the home of her sister, Mrs. Ferguson.

Bill Sikes (a well known colored character) died on Sunday as a result of an attack of epilepsy.

The young lambs and sheep, who have been suffering for the lack of green grass, are now somewhat relieved, as the grass has commenced to show up green on the hill sides and valleys.

There is no change in the condition of Mr. J. Will Calvert, and the worst is feared by those who are nursing him.

Mrs. Jennie Blanton, who was so ill in Louisville, was brought here on a special train on Saturday, and is improving rapidly.

Mr. Cyrus T. Duvall and Mr. A. M. Duvall were in Frankfort on Monday.

Mr. J. C. B. Stone, who went to Virginia to locate, but was not pleased with the outlook, went from there to Greenville, Tenn. and will probably locate there. He is visiting here now.

The weather still continues cold and damp and but little spring plowing has been done. We hope now that bright days are showing up, that things will improve.

CLIMATIC CURES.

The influence of climatic conditions in the cure of consumption is very much overrated. The poor patient, and the rich patient too, can do much better at home by proper attention to food digestion, and a regular use of German Syrup. Free expectoration in the morning is made certain by German Syrup, so is a good night's rest and the absence of that weakening cough and debilitating night sweat. Restless nights and the exhaustion due to coughing, the greatest danger and dread of the consumptive, can be prevented or stopped by taking German Syrup liberally and regularly. Should you be able to go to a warmer clime, you will find that of the thousands of consumptives there, the few who are benefited and regain strength are those that use German Syrup. Trial bottle, 25c; regular size, 75c. At all druggists.

A household necessity—D. R. Thomas' Electric Oil. Heals burns, cuts, wounds of any sort cures sore throat, croup, catarrh, asthma; never fails.

Dr. Weaver's Syrup and Cerate. Satisfactory treatment for blood and skin diseases.

THRO' KENTUCKY.

Thro' that grand State of Kentucky. Where the "Old Home" got its name. Where the fields are overflowing With the yellow ripening grain.

Here tobacco plants are growing. In the fields not sown with corn. Tobacco plants—big as cactus—Just as sure as you are born.

Yes, they're large as good-sized cactus. Larger in our home-like view. But it's of as fine a grade as Is that old "Kentucky Dew."

Here all people reap a harvest. Money in bank from year to year. All the green calumny howlers. Lose their jobs when they land here.

Here the "dry" ways are the high-ways. Built high and dry from rains and flood.

Here the "good roads delegation," Swear the roads are suit'ly good.

But of pikes and highways finest. There's a "road" that suits my taste. 'Tis the line of Solid Comfort.

And the trails lead to no time waste. From Kentucky to St. Louis. Operates this road of class. Across the famous old "Green River"

On its roadbed smooth as glass. Would you know what road I speak of? Listen then to my advice.

For you'll need it in your business. On your trip to Paradise.

In your travels to St. Louis—Hurry! beat them under the wire. "Get the Henderson Route" hab' it!"

"Tis a good one to acquire. —JACK "HENDERSON" GALLAGHER.

COLDS CAUSE PNEUMONIA.

One of the most remarkable cases of a cold, deep-seated on the lungs, causing pneumonia, is that of Mrs. Gertrude E. Fenner, Marion, Ind., who was entirely cured by the use of One Minute Cough Cure. She says: "The coughing and straining so weakened me that I ran down in weight from 148 to 92 pounds. I tried a number of remedies to no avail until I used One Minute Cough Cure. Four bottles of this wonderful remedy cured me entirely of the cough, strengthened my lungs and restored me to my normal weight, health and strength." Sold by J. W. Gayle.

A PAPER EVERY FARMER AND BREEDER SHOULD HAVE.

The first two issues of The Kentucky Farmer and Breeder contain special articles by eminent authorities on the Kentucky saddle horse, short-horns, trotting horses, Shetland ponies, game chickens, sales of Kentucky horses in Kentucky. It is the first paper to publish a full list of the horses at both the Lexington and Louisville race tracks; on the trotting track at Lexington. It is also the first paper in the State that has ever published a complete directory of thoroughbred and trotting stallions, and it will publish from time to time complete directories of all the blooded animals standing in the State.

Its last issue contained a full list of the winning two-year-old thoroughbreds with their sires and dams, showing the blood lines of every two-year-old that won last year—an invaluable list to every one who breeds race horses. Every farmer and breeder in the State should subscribe for this paper and we are able to offer it with the Roundabout for the price of $2.75 a year if the subscription is sent us by the twenty-seventh of March. Its price is two dollars a year strictly in advance.
